SEEKING ASYLUM

- Flight from massive trauma
 - Search for a secure base and safety
 - Need to process trauma and put in a narrative form
 - Transgenerational repair and need to protect children and sustain culture and memory

Trauma and Recovery

- Vulnerability of refugee populations
 - 30%depression and trauma related symptoms
 - Little known about diverse models of psychological trauma and recovery
 - Little evidence about effective interventions and cultural applicability

Government Response

- Policies of deterrence
 - Remote processing
 - Detention of families and children
 - Removal of permanent resettlement
 - Mandatory and indefinite detention
 - Criminalisation of protest
 - Detention of mentally ill

ROLE OF HEALTH /WELFARE PROFESSIONS

- Commitment to human rights/values
 - Role of advocacy for vulnerable groups
 - Ethical responsibility to oppose harmful policies regardless of political party
 - Research and policy development
 - Reflective practice

RESEARCH CONTEXT

- Issues in IDC research and data – suicide and self harm
 - Issues in following former detainees
 - Issues in tracking impact of negative outcome and removal pathway
 - Impact of temporary arrangements/ bridging visa

PRIORITY ISSUES

- Impact of mandatory detention on mental health and emotional wellbeing
 - Impact of remote processing and lack of permanent protection
 - Concepts of adaptation, recovery and social inclusion
 - Impact on children and young people including UAMS

PRIORITY ISSUES

- Identification of mental health and trauma related issues
 - Understanding premigration, migration and settlement factors and mental health
 - Intervention approaches for children and young people with trauma related issues

at the government's pleasure

IMPACT OF TRAUMA

- Attack on attachment – loss of hearing other; loss of integrative function of narrative
 - Breakdown of capacity to mourn
 - Identification with destruction – new reality
 - Breakdown of symbolic function – concrete reexperiencing
 - Persistent symptoms

MASSIVE TRAUMA

- Fundamental alterations in identity, experience of reduction to a non-human life form
 - Efforts at repair and mastery
 - Shattered self is not reconstituted as the same – knowledge that Horror exists

CHILDREN IN DETENTION

- Alternate temporary detention includes justice facilities, hotels, motels, hospitals and health facilities
 - Children are under guard, restricted movement. Limited access to recreation and education or psychological support

REMOTE CENTRE STUDY

Steel, Silove, Newman et al, 2007

- Study of 11 families of single ethnic group in a remote facility – 22 children
- SCID-IV, K-SADS-PL
- All children symptomatic following traumatic exposure
- 21 children major depression, 50%PTSD, 50% Separation Anxiety

REMOTE CENTRE STUDY

Steel, Newman, Silove et al

- Study of 11 families of single ethnic group in a remote facility – 22 children
- SCID-IV, K-SADS-PL
- All children symptomatic following traumatic exposure
- 21 children major depression, 50%PTSD, 50% Separation Anxiety

REMOTE CENTRE STUDY

- All adults and children met diagnostic criteria for at least one psychiatric disorder
 - Children had a 10 fold increase in disorder subsequent to detention
 - All adults and most children experienced traumatic symptoms related to detention experiences

MENTAL DISORDER IN DETAINEE CHILDREN

- High rates of depression, anxiety and PTSD
 - Attachment disorders, withdrawal, developmental delay in young children
 - Effects of exposure to riots, self-harm and adult distress
 - Unmediated experiences of trauma

LONG TERM IMPACT OF DETENTION CENTRES

- Neurodevelopmental effects of trauma and neglect
 - Attachment disorder and relationship disturbance
 - Risk of chronic depression
 - Ongoing anger and alienation

POLITICAL APPLICATION OF PSYCHOTHERAPY

- Human rights commitment
 - Commitment to rehabilitation
 - Creation of containing structures, services
 - Validation of experiences and survival

THERAPIST EXPERIENCE

- Reflection on own political position, culture, relationship to refugee experience
 - Shame regarding host nation. Government policy, racism
 - Risk of over identification, over responsibility or denial

THERAPIST EXPERIENCE

- Overwhelming grief, anger, outrage
 - Sense of meaninglessness of anything other than trauma
 - Managing the haunted – the terrible knowledge the refugee has about the human condition and the banality of evil
 - Contagion of horror

EXPANDING THE BOUNDARIES OF THERAPEUTIC ACTION

- The therapeutic exists in a sociopolitical context and is shaped by and reflects predetermined values
- Individualism of therapeutic models is problematised by massive traumas
- Therapeutic neutrality is not possible in the context of human rights violations

CLINICAL AND ETHICAL ISSUES IN IDC

- Is treatment possible in this environment?
- Compromising of clinical standards and control of clinical decision making
- Human rights violations and responsibility of clinicians

STATE SPONSORED CHILD ABUSE AND MALTREATMENT

- Professional responsibility to oppose any policy which is traumatising, harmful and renders clinicians powerless in terms of healing role
 - Lessons form history that medicine/ psychiatry can be misused or coopted by political agendas in an unethical manner; collaboration may become collusion

BUILDING ON EVIDENCE

- Attempts to minimise impact of psychological evidence
 - Attribution of all disorder to pre-migration trauma
 - Need for adequate services for high-risk populations
 - Comparison of community based asylum seekers and detainee groups

CONCLUSION:

DETENTION AND TRAUMA

- Suicidality and mass self-harm in IDCs represents a convergence of health, advocacy and human rights concerns
 - These problems are directly related to the extremity of the detention environment and to the politics of detention
